and his dental center have garnered a well-earned reputation for excellence, a reputation that has only grown thanks to their use of state-of-the-art digital imaging facility. Thanks to Dr. Soleymani's use of the latest technology regarding patients can enjoy different types of prosthesis including implant supported bridges or implant retained dentures replacing their old and ill-fitting removable dentures easier than ever before.

For years, traditional dentures and bridges were the only options for those whose teeth were not salvageable. With the advent of dental implants tooth replacement can improve one's chewing function and aesthetics better than ever before. Moreover, utilizing the new computer guided implant surgery, placement of dental implant and the fabrication of the corresponding prosthesis over the implants can be done with much better accuracy and speed. In many cases for full mouth restorations and sometimes for single restorations a fixed temporary can be made that mimics the aesthetics of the final restoration at the time of dental implant placement.

By using CT Scan technology and 3-D imaging, Dr. Soleymani can visualize the placement of dental implants in three dimensions—an advancement that can lead to a number of benefits for the patient and dentist alike. For the dentist, this eliminates a great deal of guesswork in determining which parts of the jawbone will be ideal for placement of the implant, which in turn ensures the patient receive the most precise and efficient treatment possible.

For a more accurate, safer dental implant procedure using the latest, most effective technology, there's no better option than Dr. Peiman Soleymani.
