

Piano inc Launches App for iPad, Mini Maestros Piano Learning

Written by Australian Business

NEW YORK, Oct. 18, 2013 /PRNewswire-iReach/ -- Piano inc. is pleased to announce that it's Mini Maestros App for the iPad is now available in the iTunes App Store

Anyone can learn to play the piano without spending a fortune on lessons thanks to the Mini-Maestros E-Learning Piano App.

This interactive music app teaches children (and adults) how to learn to play the piano, read music and understand rhythms in an easy three piece format on your iPad.

Like many parents, you have always wanted your kids to take piano lessons but most days, like me, you wake up with good intentions. But first, you make your coffee, shower, make breakfast for your kids, feed the dog, unload the dishwasher, check your email, get the kids dressed and on the bus and then you get ready for work and it is only 8 a.m.!

We are all SUPER busy, money is tight and your schedule is full. And your plan to take your kids for piano lessons falls by the wayside. Kim and Brian McGee know this routine well. But driven by their passion for music and teaching, they have created A PERFECT solution, the MINI-MAESTROS E-LEARNING PIANO APP, for TIME-PRESSED parents who trek their kids back and forth to piano lessons at a minimum per half-hour lesson fee. Time and money can be a drain on good intentions. Now, the McGees have created a convenient and cost-effective way for kids to learn to play the piano on the iPad. Kim, a music teacher, is also a wife, a mom and a piano teacher who has been going from home to home or teaching children in her own home for more than 15 years. One day she and her husband thought there has to be an easier way.

The McGees' Inspiration, A good number of Kim's students these days are glued to their electronic gadgets, including the iPad, playing games, web surfing, tweeting or using other social media. Kim and her husband always wanted to create something worthwhile for Kim's
