

We're hiring: The Conversation's technical development team is growing

Written by The Conversation USA

Our development team works with more 70 editors and thousands of academics. Our audience and ambitions are growing, so a team of 5 isn't enough and we're looking for some help.

Our team is based in leafy Carlton (Melbourne), but we are open to remote team members.

We have two senior development roles open, and need people with skills in:

- Ruby and rails
- HTML, javascript and CSS
- Keeping large rails apps maintainable

If you can help us spread the word, we need people who share our vision to share knowledge through a new way of doing journalism.

Further information available on our Jobs Board .

Read more <http://theconversation.com/were-hiring-the-conversations-technical-development-team-is-growing-59264>