

NORCROSS, GA, September 12, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Granite is one of the hardest natural stones and certainly one with the most variety in terms of colors and patterns. Because of its durability and beauty, it is highly desirable as countertops for indoor and outdoor kitchens as well as for bathroom vanities.

But even the best granite is porous to some degree, as indeed, all stones are. Premier Stone Services, a successful granite warehouse in Chattanooga, suggests sealing your granite countertop every two to three years. A good quality commercial sealer that costs about $40 a quart is good enough to seal a 200 to 400 square foot area of granite countertop. Apply the sealer to a completely dry and clean area; wait for about half an hour for the sealer to dry and the granite to absorb the sealer, and then wipe off the excess sealer with a simple kitchen towel.

This Chattanooga countertop company has been in business for a long time," certainly long enough to know how to help their customers take care of their granite countertops and enjoy them for many years to come.

Dara Summers, Vice President of Sales and Marketing, has this to say about the company she works for: "We have the best and most modern tools to cut and shape the beautiful granite that we source from all over the world. But our best asset remains our people and the top-rate service we are all prepared to give our customers. We are committed to meeting and exceeding our clients, expectations and securing their satisfaction."

For an incredible selection of granite, marble, or soapstone countertops in Chattanooga, visit Premier Stone Services. Their expertise and professionalism truly puts them a cut above the rest.
