

Boston Area Data Storage Specialists, Rockland IT, Launches New Company Blog

Written by Australian Business

BOSTON, MA, September 19, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Rockland IT recently announced that they have launched their new company blog online. This Boston-area IT services company has provided information on the blog regarding the safe usage and storage of critical and confidential data. Over time, the content will expand to include other types of data-related advice as well.

Visitors to this new blog can expect to find articles such as "How to Purge a Hard Drive", "Spec Out Your New Server Right the First Time" and "How to Destroy a Hard Drive." This blog has been started in order to assist clients with everyday questions they may have regarding the storage, usage and deletion of critical data, but have not been able to find answers to until now.

This company offers a wide selection equipment from suppliers like EMC, QLogic, Brocade, and Emulex. When it comes to data solutions, this Boston IT solutions company will be able to cater to all of your needs at highly competitive prices. They also offer disaster recovery services, data destruction, and buy-back and trade-in programs. Potential and existing clients who wish to read the blog articles for themselves can go here: <http://www.rocklandits.com/data-storage-blog>

Rockland IT Solutions is an industry leader in the refurbished data storage market. With our extensive inventory and over 25 years of experience in the industry, you can be assured that your order will be handled correctly and efficiently the first time around.