POUGHKEEPSIE, NY, September 22, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Years ago Anthony Campanella and Paul Papineau, owners of Campanella Fence a leading fence company in New York

, realized that there is much more to life than work. When Anthony's mom and his wife's friend fought back against cancer, they had a wake-up call to make an impact against this awful disease and other adverse situations that affect the lives of many.

"Pay it forward," states Anthony when talking about Campanella Fence Company , created to provide charitable donations and managed by Lisa, Anthony's wife. Lisa is also a part time employee at Campanella Fence. Campanella Fence Company, in association with other generous organizations, have touched the lives of many people and improved their living conditions.

They make this contribution through their products and services, their philanthropic programs, and other corporate initiatives. To name a few of the many charitable organizations through which Anthony Campanella and Paul Papineau have made multiple donations, ABC's Extreme Makeover, Stephan's Journey (of Oprah's big give), Mahopac Chamber Park, Mahopac Library, Mahopac Sports Association Football and Soccer, Mahopac Firehouse, Cystic Fibrosis and many more.

Campanella Fence has grown into much more than just fences since 1987 when it was founded. They understand the importance of helping to solve the world's major challenges. As a result of their commitment, on December 1st, 2008 the company launched a Post For A Cure Campaign.

For every post installed, Campanella Fence Company started giving $1.00 to The American Cancer Society's "Relay For Life". So by April 17th 2009 the company had made a significant donation with the money raised through "Post For A Cure", as a joined effort with its valuable customers. Every post they set was dedicated to a person standing tall in the face of cancer.

Their inaugural post was set and marked with a pink ribbon on November 30, 2008. Actress Vanessa Williams attended to stand up for a cause that is personal for many, and that directly affects one in two men, and
