

LOS ANGELES, CA, September 22, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Andrew (Drew) Grey, partner and CPA with SRG, LLP, received the San Fernando Valley Business Journal's CPA "Trusted Advisors" award at the Journal's event held recently. The honor is given only to a select few professionals who meet the highest levels of their profession.

"It's an honor to be recognized by the Journal as a 'trusted advisor', said Grey of the award. "To be nominated by people from within the business community is an honor in and of itself. To be chosen by the selection committee to receive the Trusted Advisor Award is quite rewarding."

Drew Grey is a partner at the firm SRG, LLP (formerly Solomon Ross Grey). A CPA and strategic business consultant, Drew relies on his experience not only as an accountant with Big 8 firms but also as a Chief Financial Officer (CFO) to help him counsel his clients. In addition to traditional tax work, Drew's practice focuses on helping business owners grow by maximizing profits and asset accumulation while minimizing tax liabilities.

Drew has helped has counsel many companies during rapid growth cycles, including serving as CFO to a Consumer Products Company with products in more than 27,000 stores and in more than 22 countries. Drew works predominantly with business owners and high net worth individuals, in areas such as real estate, telecommunications, health care, manufacturing, distribution, and service industries.

Nominations for the Trusted Advisor Awards were submitted by 3rd parties, and were reviewed by a blue ribbon selection committee. To be nominated, individuals had to meet strict qualifications, including working fulltime as a CPA in public accounting, licensed to practice in California, have at least 10 years experience, and must spend 90% of their time working in the greater San Fernando Valley area.
