

LOS ANGELES, CA, September 23, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- New websites pop up everyday and more than often are all too similar to their bigger and all-powerful brothers. Here walks in primewinn.com who is on the forefronts of an ingenious movement of incentivizing users' time. The question always arises when users are about to test the website for the first time, "How does the rewards system work?"

The points on this website are accrued much like you would earn points from credit card purchases or an airlines' frequent flyer's reward program. Anything you essentially do on the website is incentivized; watching ads, shopping, and sharing the news with your friends via social media.

"Online shopping has been gaining popularity with sites like ebay and amazon, especially around the holidays," says Jasleen Singh, Primewinn Co-Founder. "It's the rewards programs that starts confusing people, 'sign up for this credit card' or 'sign up for this free upgraded trial' is not very appealing. Our deals and rewards are built in! It's that simple."

More information is expected to be released as further website developments are revealed.

About Primewinn.com Primewinn is a premiere shopping destination with the hottest brands and products that incentivizes users to watch promotional videos and shop. The creators of the website, <http://www.primewinn.com>, have built amazing retail partnerships with merchants and advertisers that want to sell their products and reach their fabulous customer base. A passionate and creative team has invested their time and passion in to making Primewinn what it is today and continue to contribute to the potential of what it can become. Visit today to be entertained and enjoy every click of the way.