Written by Australian Business

LOS ANGELES, CA, September 10, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Legal Document Server, Inc. is on a mission to not only provide an intuitive, efficient platform for managing legal documents online, but also preserve the environment by decreasing the use of paper goods and carbon emissions generated by the legal industry.

According to the Legal Marketing Association (LMA), "With some 1.1 million attorneys in the United States, cutting paper use in half could save nearly 2.5 million tons of carbon emissions." Legal Document Server allows documents to be served online, which eliminates the need for printing and the transportation of physical documents.

Legal Document Server (LDS) was created by veteran attorneys with the goal of transforming and modernizing the process of exchanging legal documents. The team has built an online platform that combines electronic service with an all-in-one document management system for mobile case management.

For a limited time only, law firms that designate Legal Document Server as their eService provider will receive complimentary services for the entire duration of their first case.
