

WASHINGTON, DC, November 04, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- The "Red Thread" is a remarkable memoir from one of the most successful, solid and forthright telecommunications leaders in the world. H. Brian Thompson's memoir chronicles his rise to the top from a chemical engineering student and U.S. Navy bomb-disposing diver to the top ranks of today's well-known telecommunications brands.

"The Red Thread" is more than a business memoir; this is Brian's real-world journey documenting the ever-changing telecommunications industry through his own red thread analogy. "The Red Thread" describes the intertwined character traits, behavior patterns and decisions that he believes have run through his career and led to his many successes and also defined some of his failures.

"The Red Thread - My Fortunate Life In Telecommunications," available on Amazon, is a memoir for business leaders, MBA student and others to see, understand and learn from Brian's journey as they set their own course in life and business. "Read this book," exclaims Vint Cerf, Internet Pioneer. "Learn from Brian's experience at less personal cost than he has paid. His candor and insights are reflected in the colorful fabric of his remarkable career."

"No person is successful on his or her own", says H. Brian Thompson. "This memoir is also the story of the many people in my life who taught, mentored and supported me and helped shape my career and my future endeavors."

About the AuthorH. Brian Thompson is Executive Chairman of GTT, a global Tier 1 IP network with the most interconnected Ethernet service platform around the world, providing highly reliable, scalable and secure cloud network services. As a veteran senior executive of the telecommunications industry, Thompson has been instrumental in impacting the rise of competitive telecommunications both in the U.S. and abroad. Learn more...

About the Book"The Red Thread - My Fortunate Life In Telecommunications" (Cosey Point Press; Paperback; $12.64; Kindle Edition $9.99; August 2, 2013) is available on Amazon.

The memoir pays tribute to his family and their pivotal role that made him the leader he is today. As you read, Brian will share his story, his wisdom and his memories from his time as a young boy and his journey to becoming one of the world's most successful and respected telecommunications leaders in U.S. history.

Written by Australian Business

---

Business schools and corporations, invite H. Brian Thompson to speak at your next corporate event! Contact Brian's press and media contact below:

Press and Media Contact: Trish Hunter | GTTAssistant to H. Brian Thompson, Executive
ChairmanTel: 703-917-0606 | Email: trish@utinc.net