

NEW YORK, NY, November 29, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- www.CommonOffice.com, Inc., a leader in hosted vacation tracking software and human resource software, today announced its utilizing IBM product, to provide integrated Single Sign-On (SSO) offerings including SAML-based authentication as well as Active Directory integration.

For users, SSO simplifies the access to Vacation Tracking Software by removing "yet another password" to remember. For corporate IT departments, access to SaaS apps like Attendance Tracking Software is controllable from main 'Company Profile' setup tools. This also allows CommonOffice.com to easily comply with customers' multi-factor authentication or complex password requirements.

"CommonOffice.com has always been simple, affordable to implement and use," said Roger Hull, VP of Sales for CommonOffice.com, "and we've found a partner who makes directory management just as easy. Our partner is simplifying integration between CommonOffice.com and Active Directory. Our Vendor even makes this service available to our Enterprise users at no additional cost. Together with our options for Single Sign-on, we're now able to offer the entire spectrum of SSO choices."

"We welcome CommonOffice.com to our integrated suite of SaaS vendors who understand that corporations want to control access to their data in the cloud. Using SAML and industry-leading directory integration, Attendance tracking customers can now provide users a seamless sign-in experience while at the same time centralizing access control and eliminating passwords," said Jeffery Johnson, Vacation Tracker consultant.

Launch Period: Time off tracking software customers can take advantage of Active Directory integration immediately and at no additional cost. Learn more about the Vacation Tracking integration. Users needing to upgrade their Vacation Tracker service should contact Sales@CommonOffice.com
