

DALLAS, TX, December 06, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Livonia, Mich.-based PEP (Plug-in Electric Power) Stations announced today that it has selected McCusker & Company, a leading worldwide provider of consumer and commercial extended warranty services, to provide the professional strength and stability behind its electric car charging station extended warranty services.

"We are excited to have PEP Stations select our extended warranty service protection program for their products," said McCusker Holding Company Chief Executive Officer Will McCusker. "Their commercial and residential customers can enjoy peace of mind with our dedicated customer service that their products will be protected and their claims will be handled in a professional manner. Our reputation has developed from decades in the warranty business. We stand behind each and every contract."

"We are also pleased to announce that PEP Stations has entered into a Master Services Agreement with McCusker & Company, under which we will provide OEM Warranty and Extended Service Contract repair services for PEP Stations' customers," said Vice President of Operations Mark Dixon.

PEP Stations enjoy four defining characteristics - they are easily identifiable; durable; cost effective and feature user-friendliness. PEP Stations are serviced and monitored by Diebold, Incorporated - a recognized leader in the field of integrated self-service delivery and security services and systems.

Under an exclusive reseller/distributor agreement, McCusker & Company, Inc. will assist in developing, deploying, maintaining and administering extended service plan warranty programs for PEP Stations. Additionally, McCusker & Company will provide OEM Warranty and Extended Service Contract repair services for PEP Stations' commercial and residential customers.
