

DALLAS, TX, February 01, 2014 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Winston-Salem, N.C.-based 13 Enterprises has become the latest technology firm acquired by McCusker Holding Corp., a Colleyville-based firm focused on end-to-end consumer and commercial technology service solutions.

"The acquisition of 13 Enterprises extends our suite of products and services for businesses all over the world," said McCusker Holding Company Chairman Will McCusker. "Now we can handle the deployment, the service and the extended protection of enterprise computing technology for businesses."

13 Enterprises is dedicated to the smart acquisition and deployment of cutting-edge commercial technology tools for businesses. The company has strategic partnerships with the major OEM providers of technology that allow them to procure the best technology solutions for its customers. It specializes in popular Apple-based application systems as well as those based on the Android and ChromeOS platforms.

"13 Enterprises is also strong at providing creative services and product development solutions for businesses," McCusker added. "They are a very strong extension of our portfolio and we look forward to additional growth opportunities with the firm."
