

Millennium Access Control adds Scott May as Southwest Regional Sales Manager

Written by Australian Business

BOSTON, MA, February 08, 2014 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Millennium Group, Inc., a manufacturer of scalable, web-based access control systems, has announced that Scott May has recently joined their team as Southwest Regional Sales Manager. Greg Goldman, Millennium's CEO, is pleased to have added May. "I am excited to have someone with his security industry experience coupled with his proven sales success to grow our business in the Southwest."

May will manage and grow Millennium's dealer channel in the Southwestern United States. He states, "I was looking for an opportunity to grow a business and sell a web-based hosted product because I believe that is the future of the access control industry. With Millennium's Xtra, I can offer that to my dealers."

Prior to joining Millennium, May served as the National Sales Manager for the IMRON Corporation where he was responsible for growing their dealer base by 50%. Prior to IMRON, May was the Southeast Regional Sales Manager at Open Options, Inc. where he increased their dealer coverage by more than 1000% and was honored as a Salesperson of The Year. May attended Texas A&M University in Business Administration/Management.

May adds, "I look forward to developing partnerships with dealers in the Southwest; to help them increase their sales and grow Millennium's business as well."

About Millennium Group, Inc.

For over 50 years, Millennium has offered the most technologically advanced physical security systems on the market, specializing in security solutions for commercial, education, government, healthcare and luxury high-rise condominium markets. Millennium is a pioneer in scalable web-based access control systems.