

MOSCOW, RUSSIA, February 26, 2014 /24-7PressRelease/ -- IAOP has been making The Global Outsourcing 100 ranking for the last 8 years. It includes all the world's leading companies that provide a full range of outsourcing services to both the ITO and BPO area, as well as related to facility services, real estate, asset management, manufacturing and logistics. The ranking includes all the recognized industry leaders, as well as rising stars from around the world. The independent judging panel assembled by IAOP includes top experts from the sector who represent business schools, executives and CIOs of major companies.

The full rankings will be published in June of 2014 as part of a special advertising section the IAOP produces jointly with Fortune in the special Fortune 500 issue.

"At a time when the need for outsourcing is growing, The Global Outsourcing 100 and The World's Best Outsourcing Advisors lists have become invaluable reference tools to help companies research service providers," said Debi Hamill, IAOP CEO. "The companies named on these lists and sub-lists are subject to a rigorous, independently judged process and are fully deserving of their ranking as the top representatives in the industry."

MAYKOR is currently an industry-leader in the Russian IT outsourcing market, according to the ranking by Russian and Western analytic agencies IDC, Forrester, PAC Consulting, Cnews Analytics, RA Expert and others. "Over the last year MAYKOR has considerably expanded its service portfolio, improved its automated job management system, and obtained investments from fund alliance RDIF, EBRD and CapMan. Making the Global Outsourcing 100 IAOP list is a fitting tribute to the significance of our achievements in the global outsourcing industry and in Russia," said Sergey Sulgin, President of MAYKOR.
