ATLANTA, GA, May 27, 2014 /24-7PressRelease/ -- The facilitation experts at FindaFacilitator believe that an informative and interesting conference is easy for your organization to produce--if you hire a skilled facilitator.

Experienced conference facilitators work closely with their clients to create a stimulating conference program regardless of the subject matter. They find a good balance of sessions, seek out and obtain the best speakers and plan for audience involvement to produce an unforgettable conference that your attendees will rave over for years to come.

Leadership Strategies, the top facilitation training company on the East Coast and parent to FindaFacilitator, has isolated eight critical steps for facilitators to follow as they guide your organization towards designing and executing your conference program. It has trained thousands of facilitators in this method.

FindaFacilitator makes it easy for you to find one of these skilled and qualified conference facilitators through its database and its personalized expert facilitator-finding services. All of FindaFacilitator's facilitator-matching services are free for your business to use, so feel free to search or to call for a personal facilitation match.

"A skilled conference facilitator is able to take your basic ideas for a conference and flesh them out," says Kris Casariego, Director of Marketing of Leadership Strategies. "The simple act of hiring a facilitator for your conference could be the difference between an engaging conference and something less stimulating for your guests."
