

New Resume Writing Service Started by ex-Fortune 500 Company Hiring Manager

Written by Australian Business

---

CHICAGO, IL, October 21, 2014 /24-7PressRelease/ -- No Cliche Resumes (NCR), professional resume writers, has officially opened for business. Started by a past hiring manager for Fortune 500 companies, this niche resume writing service offers four affordable packages, starting at $99, for those seeking to secure interviews from well written work documents.

NCR edits/writes attention grabbing resumes, cover letters and LinkedIn profiles.

"We're different from other services in that our resume writers have worked as actual hiring managers. So, we know exactly what hiring managers are looking for in the few seconds they take to scan applicant work docs," says Steve Wyrostek, President of No Cliche Resumes. "We also use keywords, the most appropriate templates and construct sentences without time-worn cliches."

The purchaser of any one of the four resume writing packages receives unlimited revisions for 30 days and an "Interview Like the Pro You Are" guide which provides the one mindset secret practically guaranteeing a successful interview.

De-aging

A No Cliche Resume specialty is "De-aging" a resume. This procedure softens any items on a resume that reflect age. It's perfect for those over 50 years old who are seeking jobs .

"De-aging helps take how old the job seeker is out of the hiring decision process. It's hard enough to get a job when you're 55, don't let that job listing from the 80s make it harder," says Wyrostek.

Recent Grads

According to No Cliche Resumes, the plus of working with a recent grad is that it's brand new territory for a hiring manager. It's exciting to hire someone at the start of their work career. No Cliche Resumes accentuates the portion of the work/education/skills in the documents that matter for the job being applied for. Also, in almost every case (except for doctorates), the resume is one page.

"It's a matter of making every word count and in my experience, there usually is a lot there to work with for recent grads," says Wyrstek.

Technical Fields

Another specialty of No Cliche Resumes is the technical field. Effective resumes have been written for scientists as well as IT, medical and engineering professionals. The resume writers take the information and make it technical enough for a hiring manager to know the applicant's skills while making it readable for any non-technical gatekeepers the resume has to go through.

"I have written many resumes for IT pros. In fact, probably more than any other field," says Wyrstek.

About No Cliche Resumes

Steve Wyrstek has an MBA in Management and is a Certified Professional Resume Writer (CPRW). After many years in management and as an executive for Fortune 500 firms as well as small businesses, Steve has hired hundreds of people and read easily more than 1000 resumes.

He has written over 400 resumes, cover letters and LinkedIn profiles for all levels of employees. Visit No Cliche Resumes for more information. (Steve is also the founder of No Cliche Copy, an internet writing service.)