from the latest release in a Full Disclosure Network(R) TV Series featuring

Alex Alexiev

, International Security Expert and former Rand Corporation Vice President of Research, as he explains that discussing declining literacy rate, and the dire consequences to the U.S, is politically incorrect. Alexiev cites statistics compiled by the United Nations, PBS, and U.S. Government sources, and states that if

California's

California

was considered a country, the literacy rate would be ranked at 151 of 205 countries. Alexiev notes the highest illiteracy rates include

Los Angeles County

with 35%, and

Imperial County

, over 42% (every second adult). Watch the video and full segment here:
