Opus Auction, the event's inaugural online partner, will showcase over the works of over 100 different talents from the Mainland, Greater China and South Korea. Founded in 2011, Art Nova 100 hosts a series of exhibitions across cities East Asia, to showcase the creativity and originality of local artists.

This year's event, features 61 carefully chosen works by artists from China, as well as a curated selection of international submissions. These works and their individual details can be viewed online at Opus Auction, while the event's offline exhibition can be viewed at K11 Art Mall in Kowloon, Hong Kong.

Highlights of the exhibition include works by Beijing-based artist -- Cai Qian; Tianjin-born painter - Feng Yichen; South Korean mixed media artist -- Kim Junsik; as well as Beijing-based printmaker -- Ju Ting.

"We are excited to be hosting such a dynamic array of works from diverse artists from across China and South Korea," said Bong Lee, Director of Sales at Opus Auction. "It's important that these Asia-wide talents are better recognised on an international level for the value of their creativity as well as for their intrinsic messages."
