

Ever Tried a "Laser Delicious" Apple?

Written by Australia Today

The ability to detect when to harvest "climacteric" fruits -- such as apples, bananas, pears and tomatoes -- at the precise moment to ensure "peak edibility" in terms of both taste and texture may soon be within reach for farmers, thanks to the work of a team of researchers from Saint Joseph University in Lebanon and the Université de Bretagne Occidentale de Brest in France.

Read more <http://www.alphagalileo.org/ViewItem.aspx?ItemId=147873&CultureCode=en>