

Nobel laureates use unusual music video to end their lecture

Written by Business News

Nobel laureates in Physiology or Medicine Edvard and May-Britt Moser, both professors at the Norwegian University of Science and Technology (NTNU) finished their Nobel lecture with a highly unusual music video. The video features NTNU music professors who improvise over a Norwegian folk tune while representations of grid cells and neurons arc around them

Read more <http://www.alphagalileo.org/ViewItem.aspx?ItemId=147980&CultureCode=en>