

Vitamin C may help people who suffer from airway obstruction or respiratory symptoms after exercise

Written by Business News

Vitamin C may reduce bronchoconstriction and respiratory symptoms caused by exercise, according to a study published in Allergy, Asthma & Clinical Immunology.

Read more <http://www.alphagalileo.org/ViewItem.aspx?ItemId=147985&CultureCode=en>