

Ratings show real-world impact of Birmingham City University research

Written by Business News

Birmingham City University has doubled the number of staff producing internationally recognised research and significantly increased the impact its work is having on society and the economy, according to the latest ratings of higher education research performance.

Read more <http://www.alphagalileo.org/ViewItem.aspx?ItemId=148339&CultureCode=en>