

3D reconstruction software for antique auto parts and prehispanic objects

Written by Business News

---

Researchers at the University of Guadalajara, in Mexico, in collaboration with the University of the Republic in Uruguay designed a program of digital processing of 3D image from the projection and digitization of binary data that allows three-dimensional reconstruction of various objects in order to reproduce parts of classic automobiles, prehispanic antiques, as well as serving as a tool for face recognition.

Read more <http://www.alphagalileo.org/ViewItem.aspx?ItemId=148517&CultureCode=en>