

Potential new tool to monitor radiotherapy side effects

Written by Business News

Researchers in Manchester have investigated a patient-centred approach to assessing the side effects of radiotherapy and have shown that it may be able to improve the detection and management of treatment-related toxicity.

Read more <http://www.alphagalileo.org/ViewItem.aspx?ItemId=148616&CultureCode=en>