

TSRI Scientists Design Nicotine Vaccine that Provokes Robust Immune Response

Written by Business News

---

When a promising nicotine vaccine failed in clinical trials a few years ago, scientists from The Scripps Research Institute were determined to keep trying to help smokers overcome their addiction. Now the team has designed a more effective nicotine vaccine and proven that the structures of molecules used in vaccines is critical.

Read more <http://www.alphagalileo.org/ViewItem.aspx?ItemId=148739&CultureCode=en>