

£90,000 research project of tiny garden compost worms will inform new research on human diseases

Written by Business News

The study of the Caenorhabditis elegans worm will aid researchers understanding of the genetics of human disease, whilst reducing the need for animal testing

Read more <http://www.alphagalileo.org/ViewItem.aspx?ItemId=148919&CultureCode=en>