

Modular disability aids for world's poorest

Written by Business News

Brunel University London design engineering student Cara O'Sullivan's final year project aims to help developing countries make their own disability aids using modular components.

Read more <http://www.alphagalileo.org/ViewItem.aspx?ItemId=149180&CultureCode=en>