

Improving indoor air quality in EU schools

Written by Business News

SINPHONIE, an EU-funded research project on indoor air quality in EU schools, and its impact on children's health, has recently published its conclusions. Based on the evidence gathered, the Joint Research Centre and the partners developed guidelines for maintaining good air quality. They are expected to contribute to healthier school environments in Europe.

Read more <http://www.alphagalileo.org/ViewItem.aspx?ItemId=149184&CultureCode=en>