HERNDON, Va.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- ViON Corporation , a market leader in the design, delivery and maintenance of mission critical IT infrastructure solutions, today announced the opening of a new support and services facility in Utah. The opening coincides with major investments in personnel, infrastructure and facilities to provide its customers with global access to secure support and services, including cleared personnel and certified engineering talent, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, 365 days a year.

ViON has been providing mission-critical, world-class, enterprise level support to both secured and non-secured environments since the Company's inception over three decades ago. Today, ViON offers cleared support and certified engineering capabilities at levels that exceed those traditionally offered by IT providers serving the government, public sector and commercial markets. Using a large staff of highly trained, certified, cleared U.S. citizens, who are located in support and services centers throughout the U.S., ViON provides its customers with 24/7/365 IT support and services through a single point of contact, even for multi-vendor environments. ViON's support and services are backed by a large field organization that has the most up-to-date technical knowledge, past experience, industry partnerships, security clearances and OEM relationships to enable ViON to support the most mission-critical programs throughout the world.

"In a competitive landscape populated with companies that offer support and services on a fractional or time-limited basis, ViON is highly differentiated with our 24x7x365 cleared support," said Tom Frana, CEO of ViON. "We offer these services as part of our relentless advocacy for our customers, but also to make sure the agencies and organizations that we serve are able to maintain an unwavering focus on their business and missions."
