

SEATTLE--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Localloop Global Inc. (“Localloop”), the only transparent online community that guarantees privacy for consumers, launches localloop.com, a transformative experience that evolves local connections by expanding and facilitating the way top-rated businesses and verified services are identified and discovered by consumers. Starting in Seattle, Chicago, Tucson and Austin, a growing number of top-rated small businesses and organizations representing over 25 categories have now joined Localloop. Localloop is now available to small businesses and consumers at <http://www.localloop.com>

“After extensive research, including over 12,000 surveys of real consumer experiences, Localloop has listened and applied this knowledge to create a new Internet experience. Our top objective is to deliver an advertising-free platform that verifies the performance of the best businesses while offering users complete control of their privacy,” said Jason Gaylord, Localloop Founder and Chairman. “Whether consumers are searching for a local contractor or connecting with a friend, they can search our service with confidence knowing that the results they get are uniquely relevant, verified and unfiltered. No data mining, no advertising – just a clean, productive and protected online community. We're excited to make Localloop available today.”

“Industry experts and organizations worldwide are increasingly concerned with consumer privacy and claims are being made that companies cannot be ethical and successful at the same time and we fundamentally disagree,” added Shawn Tacey, Localloop President and Chief Executive Officer. “Localloop intentionally developed a business model that gave us the freedom to always put the consumer first because our business is not dependent on trafficking or monetizing consumers. Our business solutions allow top performers to thrive and win in the local economy.”
