SANTA CLARA, Calif., Sept. 13, 2013 /PRNewswire/ -- Halloween Haunt at California's Great America will begin frightening and scaring guests

Sept. 27

on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays and keep the evil running until

Oct. 27

. Scare times run from

7pm-Midnight

on each eerie evening.

Halloween Haunt's sixth horrifying season will debut two new sinister mazes, raising the frightful walks of terror count to eight.

Dia de los Muertos lures victims into the forbidden jungle of El Chupacabra – where blood rains from the sky. La Llorona, the Weeping Woman, delivers horrifying screams as creatures of the night crawl from their crypts. In the bloody halls of Zombie High, students experience a horrific homecoming with demonic hellions roaming about.

Great America's six returning haunted mazes include: Slaughterhouse Annihilation, CarnEvil, Werewolf Canyon

CornStalkers

Madame Marie's Massacre Manor

and
Toy Factory

"Halloween Haunt is the Bay Area's premier fright event," said California's Great America Vice President and General Manager

Raul Rehnborg

. "Haunt provides terrifying mazes and in-your-face experiences, mixed with the added fun of all our thrill rides.

Great America is the perfect place to confront your fears."

Also new for 2013 is Fun House Express in the Action Theater, a haunted attraction featuring a hilarious and wild underground ride filled with clowns, chaos and surprises.

Three exhilarating Scare Zones return for 2013 to keep guests on edge throughout the night. In Dead Man's Cove

– dastardly dead pirates pursue your souls, while

The Gauntlet

area features tortured spirits lurking in the fog.

Underworld Alley

is a forgotten graveyard where the undead awake to wreak havoc.

Halloween Haunt's five Live Shows bring additional frights, shills and campiness to Great America. New for 2013, Blades of Horror transports screen images to life and guest can only hope to depart safely in Halloween Haunt's inaugural ice show.

The Halloween Haunt experience begins each evening with the Overlord unleashing his fury from atop Carousel Columbia.

Tickets can be found online at www.cagreatamerica.com/haunt with free admission for 2013 and 2014 Gold Pass holders. Students can receive up to $17
