

Family Friendly Fall Festivals Bountiful in the U.S.

Written by Australian Business

CHICAGO, Sept. 17, 2013 /PRNewswire/ -- The end of summer doesn't mean the end of outdoor fun. The travel experts at The GO Group, LLC, the nation's largest group and transportation company, offer these fall events, fit for the whole family.

Baltimore, Md. is host to the Fell's Point Fun Festival on Oct. 4 – 6. The event showcases the historical Fell's Point seaport, its businesses and charming 18th and 19th century residences. For hands-on fun, head to Baltimore's Inner Harbor and build a structure in the Habitat for Humanity's HabiTown Challenge. Teams will have the opportunity to raise funds for their causes and win prizes in this friendly, judged competition. The event is open to the public and offers food and live music.

Just north of Indianapolis in Fishers, Ind. is the annual Fishers Oktoberfest at Saxony held on Sept. 28 from noon to 10 p.m. in Witten Park. Now in its 8th year, this free, family-styled event will offer German food, crafts, a beer garden, kids activities and live music. History buffs can experience the age of Queen Elizabeth I at the Fishers Renaissance Faire, Oct. 5 – 6, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at Saxony Development. There will be jousting; costumed characters; period music and dance; Shakespearean vignettes; swordplay; knighting ceremonies; parades and more than 70 artisans, merchants, food vendors, and free kid's games.
