, 2014. This merger agreement affords the Company the ability to expand its reach into the maritime and ecotourism industry with Visual Cruising Guides ability to bring to bear maritime expertise in the following: navigational charts, points of interest, fuel docks, marinas and other invaluable information for all of the coastal areas surrounding the continental United States

Utilizing the latest in mobile technology, Go Charts Marine has positioned itself to be an industry leader in the maritime charting and navigation industry. Since its establishment in 2000, Go Charts Marine L.L.C., has developed close working relationships with many private maritime companies as well as the United States Coast Guard and other ocean going governmental agencies.

"VCG Navigation serves to provide comprehensive GIS data updates to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) throughout the continental United States and the Bahamas VCG Navigation updates the actual GIS data, corrects the mistakes and adds the additional information that the governments fail to list," says

Chris Cash
of Go Charts Marine.

VCG Navigation serves to constantly update even the most comprehensive chart plotters on the market.

"Given our recent strategic focus change, taking PV Enterprises International, Inc. into the ecotourism industry, partnering with Go Charts Marine made more sense now than ever given the direction the Company is going. We are growing faster than ever with a renewed sense of focus that is bringing value to the company as well as the shareholders. Go Charts Marine brings into the Company much information regarding local cruise ports, the waterways surrounding the United States, as well as ports in the Bahama Islands that will prove to be a catalyst in expediting our plans to expand our ecotourism business internationally. Go Charts Marine is expanding their business rapidly and the new partnership with PV Enterprises, International, Inc. will allow both companies to utilize the resources of one another setting a solid foundation for those expansion plans. This is a first-rate step in the plan for the company to grow in the maritime industry; strong partnerships with solid teams at the root of that growth," states Peter Villiotis, CEO of PV Enterprises International, Inc.

Further updates regarding this exciting partnership between PV Enterprises International, Inc. and Go Charts Marine, LLC. will be made in the forthcoming days.
