, the jewel of Asia, these specials provide all-inclusive packages at unbelievable prices.

For example, a trip to Taipei, the country's magnificent capital, is available for only $1,599 per person for 8 days and 6 nights – and this includes airfare! The itinerary for this fantasy week includes a visit to the museums that contain marvelous national treasures, a visit to the Martyr's Shrine, and time at the impressive Chiang Kai-Shek Memorial Hall. With plenty of time for shopping in the eclectic markets and to explore the 17 bike trails and rivers, it's easy to understand why New York Times Travel ranks Taipei as one of the must see cities in 2014

Pacific Holidays makes its announcement more noteworthy by including a special price on its award-winning Imperial Treasures Tour. A trip to Taiwan will provide memories for a lifetime when it is incorporated into this unique survey of Chinese cultural highlights. It takes a full 11 nights to pack in all the incredible sights, including a tour of the incredible Great Wall and the mysterious, history-laden Forbidden City. When the additional gems of the Nanjing and its Confucius Temple and Ming Tomb, and a stop in Shanghai are added, the history and culture buff will be marveling at the experience. Yet, the coup de grace announced by the firm is that the trip also includes a visit to Taipei and time to enjoy its special treasures. All of this comes at an unbeatable price of $3,460 for 11 nights and 13 days with air fare included.

An additional delight was announced for those travelers with a desire for a trip to Taiwan that allows for a full overview of this one-of-a-kind island nation. Of course, the schedule includes time to enjoy the metropolitan city of Taipei that balances the modern with the ancient in a fully captivating manner. However, the recent announcement discloses an opportunity to see more of the magic of Taiwan, including many sites many visitors miss. Travel to Taiwan on this multi-faceted tour includes a coach ride to Sun Moon Lake with its many pagodas and historical structures.

Visitors are also escorted to Kaosiung for the opportunity to appreciate the majesty of the Fo
