

AKRON, Ohio, Oct. 2, 2013 /PRNewswire/ -- A. Schulman, Inc. (Nasdaq-GS: SHLM), a leading global supplier of engineered plastics, additive masterbatches, custom performance color, specialty powders and distribution services, will present its innovative Surface Solutions™ at the Society of Plastics Engineers' 29th

Annual Blow Molding Conference.

Doreen Becker, Strategic Account Manager, will present at the conference to be held on October 8

9, 2013 at the Crowne Plaza in Atlanta

, Georgia. Becker, an industry-recognized color trend expert, has combined avant-garde fashion sensibilities with socioeconomic trends to create significant color stories and trending color palettes. These palettes serve as innovation guides for Packaging Designers and her presentation will share visual examples while discussing drivers behind the 2015 trends.

Chris Kerscher, A. Schulman's Marketing Manager of Masterbatch Solutions, will also speak at the conference. Kerscher's presentation will focus on processing of custom Surface Solutions™ and optimizing purging through color transition in extrusion blow molding.

Attendees at the conference can visit A. Schulman's exhibit to experience how Surface Solutions™ modify and improve performance, appearance and processing of critical packaging surfaces. Customized formulations and investment in technical development establish A. Schulman as a market leader in additive Masterbatch Solutions and Custom Performance Color.
