

HOUSTON, Sept. 16, 2013 /PRNewswire/ -- Hamilton Vein Center, the leading vein clinic of Texas, is pleased to announce the hiring of three board-certified, fellowship-trained interventional radiologists to work in its flagship Sugar Land vein clinic, and its Katy and Clear Lake locations, both of which are now operating full-time.

Doctors Eric Hardee, A.J. Valenson, and Tonie Reincke have been trained by HVC founder and medical director, Dr. Carlos R. Hamilton, and are experts in vein disease diagnostics and advanced minimally invasive vein treatments. "The credentials these physicians are bringing to the practice are top-tier and meet my extremely high standards on every level. Most of all, these are three very nice people, who are passionate about helping people with vein disease," said Dr. Hamilton.

Dr. Eric Hardee will head up Hamilton Vein Center Katy. Dr. Hardee graduated from Baylor College of Medicine, completed his internship and residency at Naval Medical Center in San Diego and a fellowship in vascular and interventional radiology at Dotter Interventional Institute at Oregon Health Sciences University in Portland.

Dr. A.J. Valenson is leading the Hamilton Vein Center location that serves Clear Lake/Webster. A graduate of Yale Medical School

, Dr. Valenson completed an internship in surgical training in Chicago, his residency in radiology at Yale, and a fellowship in vascular interventional radiology at Rush University Medical Center.

Dr. Tonie Reincke is treating patients in Sugar Land. Dr. Reincke, a graduate of Wayne State University School of Medicine, did her residency and fellowship training in interventional radiology at the Detroit Medical Center at Wayne State University. She also holds bachelors' degrees in nursing and physician assistant studies.

Both Hamilton Vein Center locations in Clear Lake and Katy will be operating full-time September 16.
