

<http://www.hc-disconnects.com>

A non-partisan resource for journalists and policy makers looking for researched opinion and current commentary on the health care debate.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4, 2013 /PRNewswire-USNewswire/ -- David Gimlett M.D. is a family physician with over 50 years of practice experience as a doctor and administrator in a family practice. He is on the editorial board of Health Care Disconnects and a regular contributor.

When asked what motivated his latest blog he replied:

"The issue of cost sharing in the new insurance exchanges is critically important. The exchanges have started to register customers for the new Obamacare health insurance policies. These policies are designed by insurance companies to further their profits. Their limitations in coverage will be disappointing to many newly "insured" and will prevent affordable access to medical care for millions of hopeful purchasers."

The full article and current news pertaining to health care policy is available at:

<http://blog.hc-disconnects.com/>

Obamacare Insurance Exchanges: Buyer Beware

Written by Australian Business

This copy is available to Journalists and the Media at no cost, all enquiries should be sent to the publisher at:

<mailto:publisher@hc-disconnects.net?subject=Request for Rights Usage>.

We welcome you to this site and hope you and your teams will find it interesting and useful.

If you would like more information about this topic, please email at publisher@hc-disconnects.net or visit us at <https://www.hc-disconnects.com/>

Blog: <http://blog.hc-disconnects.com/>

Twitter: <https://twitter.com/EditorHC>

SOURCE Health Care Disconnects

RELATED LINKS <http://www.hc-disconnects.com>