Many patients are curious about the benefits of Invisalign vs. braces. Dr. Ghasri, Los Angeles Invisalign provider, may recommend a specific treatment for specific results. Both Invisalign and braces are similar in that they can deliver a wide range of orthodontic changes. They can straighten crooked teeth, correct improperly spaced teeth and improve bites. However, for many people, Invisalign is simply more comfortable. Treatment requires no irritating wires or brackets, and aligners can easily be removed for cleaning or eating. One of the top benefits of Invisalign for many patients is that treatment is exceptionally private. Without telltale metal wires and brackets, patients often feel more confident during the orthodontic process. Fewer orthodontist visits are required since patients can change aligners on their own according to the specifications of their treatment plans.
