) Hillcrest (San Diego), CA – Dr. Peggy L. Curtis and Dr. Hilda Thompson take pride in delivering top-notch dental care to patients in downtown San Diego at Park Dental Arts. "But we wanted to take it to the next level," Dr. Curtis explained. "Our new website allows us to extend our reach into the digital realm."

Dr. Curtis and Dr. Thompson see patients at their Banker's Hill dental office, taking the time to get to know their preferences and alleviate their fears. "We've found that new patients feel more comfortable booking their initial consultations after having reviewed our website," Dr. Curtis said. "By browsing our site, they can learn about the procedures we offer, our philosophy, and the unique amenities that make our San Diego dental office so unique."

Park Dental Arts was recently featured in San Diego Magazine, which detailed their innovative dentistry practice, services, and their selection as two of America's Top Dentists by the Consumers Research Council of America.

"We've received a lot of attention since being honored with the 'top dentists' designation," Dr. Curtis said. "It's both humbling and empowering. We've always held ourselves to a higher standard. Now, America is watching and we're excited to show new and existing patients – and the dental community at large – that dentistry is evolving as we speak. We aim to make dental anxiety a thing of the past."

To that end, the new website, ParkDentalArts.com, is loaded with information. "Patients can learn about the procedures we recommend from the comfort of their home by watching videos on our website," Dr. Curtis said. "We also have a form for them to send us electronic messages. In fact, we love communicating with our patients. Whether a patient wants to call us on the
