Celgene Corporation Research Report

On November 22, 2013, Celgene International Sàrl, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Celgene Corporation (Celgene), announced that the European Medicines Agency's (EMA) Committee for Medicinal Products for Human Use (CHMP) has adopted a positive opinion for ABRAXANE (paclitaxel formulated as albumin bound nanoparticles, or nab-paclitaxel) in combination with gemcitabine for first-line treatment of adult patients with metastatic adenocarcinoma of the pancreas. According to Celgene, it expects the European Commission, which generally follows the recommendation of the CHMP, to make the final decision within two to three months.

Alan Colowick

, MD, President of Celgene Europe, the Middle East and

Africa

(EMEA), said, "The positive CHMP opinion on ABRAXANE with gemcitabine for metastatic pancreatic cancer is a significant step toward bringing the first new treatment option in many years to people diagnosed with this deadly disease, which has seen multiple clinical trial failures over the years. Following a positive decision by the European Commission within the next few months, we hope to begin the important work of helping physicians and patients gain access to ABRAXANE plus gemcitabine, which has demonstrated statistically significant and clinically meaningful improvements in overall survival compared to gemcitabine alone, as reported recently in the New England Journal of Medicine.

Fresenius Medical Care AG & Co. (ADR) Research Report

On November 25, 2013, Reuters reported that the shares of Fresenius Medical Care AG & Co. (ADR) (Fresenius Medical Care) rose after a statement by a U.S. healthcare agency, which informed of its intention to phase in reimbursement cuts rather than introduce them in one hit in 2014. Reuters further reported that Medicare, the U.S. government healthcare program for elderly and disabled people, will spread a 9.4% cut, initially proposed to take effect in 2014, over the next three to four years. The Reuters report also informed that Medicare reimburses Fresenius Medical Care and other dialysis providers for the cost of treating kidney patients covered by the Medicare program. Commenting on the phased-in cuts, Reuters reported that each year, the cuts will be no worse than routine annual mark-ups to adjust for inflation, making Medicare payments remain flat at worst, for at least the next two years.
