

(PRLEAP.COM) April 16, 2014 - Dr. Robert Ruess and the Five Star Vein Institute proudly announce that Dr. Ruess will be delivering a comprehensive lecture at Nellis Air Force Base in Las Vegas on April 17, 2014. Entitled Vein Disease 2014, the lecture will cover a wide range of topics related to vein diseases and disorders .

"The lecture will cover the pathophysiology, modern treatment , and prevention of common vein problems," said Dr. Ruess. "The target audience will be all members of the Nellis medical staff, including physicians of all specialties, residents, nurses and paramedical personnel," he added. There will be a question-answer period following the lecture.

As a Board Certified Thoracic and Cardiovascular surgeon who holds additional certifications from the American Board of Venous and Lymphatic Disease and the American Board of Surgery, Dr. Ruess is well qualified to speak on the subject of venous disease. For the last 6 years his medical practice has been dedicated exclusively to the treatment of vein problems.

The lecture will draw attention to the most common cause of leg pain in this country, venous hypertension. This is a problem that all of us will develop if we live long enough.

Dr. Ruess will discuss the cutting-edge treatments that he offers at the Five Star Vein Institute. These include compression therapy, ambulatory phlebectomy, sclerotherapy and endovenous laser ablation. Dr. Ruess will also talk about his office's proprietary cosmetic therapy, a combination of sclerotherapy and Vein Wave treatment, that is capable of clearing 85+ percent of unwanted veins.
