First of all, a bridesmaid's dress doesn't have to be so fanciful. After all, no one should outshine the bride on her special day. So for bridesmaids, opt for simple designs and fabrics, with minimal add-ons needed.

Sourcing the dresses also provides options. A couple may decide to have a dress custom-made for each bridesmaid, but because this involves the labor of people like seamstresses, this can cause more hassle and expenses. It's a good thing many stores offer cheap bridesmaid dresses that are ready to wear. It's an even better thing that couples can just browse online for countless choices. When shopping online, an important thing to remember is to check for guarantees so no expense gets wasted. Another option is to shop at prom sections for cheap bridesmaid dresses, and to do it right after the prom season, when prices have dropped. For this option, the top considerations should include the design and sizes of the dresses. Not all prom designs can be appropriate for a bridesmaid, but there are many that would be just perfect. And of course, since prom dresses are made for teens, the bridesmaids' sizes should be a priority. Other ways to save on this aspect involve customer-store relationships. Some couples choose to source all their wedding needs from one store in order to avail of a special offer. Some buy cheap bridesmaid dresses in bulk, as this also warrants a discount. Others even go as far as striking deals with wedding stores to get discounts in exchange for store promotions and the like.
