Clearwater, FL - Home Performance Alliance promoted an employee of three years, Brent Fredrickson, to field manager. Beginning as a warehouse employee, Brent recently finished his bachelor's degree at Tampa University, graduating with honors. He enjoys taking care of his young family as well as fishing and skiing.

Home Performance Alliance, owned by Randall Mullins Construction and also known as HPA Windows and Doors, specializes in providing locally-made, energy-efficient Doers brand windows in the St. Petersburg, Tampa, and Orlando area.

Backed by a lifetime transferable warranty, Doers Sashlite and Dominator EXT Impact Windows exceed Energy Star's strict Florida criteria and excel in resisting condensation and water infiltration. "Our energy-efficient windows save customers money and protect the environment from carbon emissions," said a company spokesperson. Energy-efficient, double-pane glass windows containing argon gas keep a home cooler in the summer by blocking heat from the sun, and warmer in the winter by holding in heat.

Doers Dominator EXT Impact Windows offer a combination of energy efficiency as well as strength with their hybrid vinyl and metal construction. Dominator EXT Impact windows hold up in tough storms while they drain moisture away from a home with a patented dual weep system. However, beauty is not compromised as these storm-resistant windows provide a large viewing area, beautiful design, and a clean line profile to blend with all architecture.

Doers' long-lasting windows are virtually maintenance-free, never requiring painting, and are easy to clean and operate. "Our windows are unique in their European style with a step and bevel frame providing a beautiful exterior," said a company spokesperson. "New windows provide a lot of curb appeal."
