"Many people have a difficult time eliminating fat cells from certain resistant localized areas such as back fat, love handles and the isolated belly fat," said Dr. Eric Challgren. "Without invasive surgery, Coolsculpting can target and eliminate these stubborn fat cells safely and naturally. With no downtime or special aftercare steps, our patients have been remarkably satisfied with CoolSculpting."

Cleared by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA), CoolSculpting gently cools unwanted fat cells in the body thereby inducing a natural, controlled elimination of fat cells. Based on science developed by the Wellman Center for Photomedicine at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston, Mass., in the United States, this breakthrough is based on a vast body of research that demonstrates that fat cells are more susceptible to cold and are selectively, painlessly and permanently destroyed. Starting several weeks after the procedure, cooled fat cells begin a process called "apoptosis" and begin to shrink and disappear. The body proceeds to naturally and gradually eliminate the cooled fat cells, reducing the thickness of the fat layer.
