HOUSTON, TX, September 13, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Jean M. Ford, Independent Consultant, has been recognized by Worldwide Who's Who for showing dedication, leadership and excellence in energy consulting.

Ms. Ford has worked in regulated, deregulated and retail energy markets. Her experience has also been in the upstream, midstream and downstream oil and natural gas sectors. Ms. Ford ensures that the needs of the business user are accounted for through process reengineering and software implementations in a highly competitive and rapidly changing business environment.

Known for being a self-driven professional, Ms. Ford has 33 years of experience in the energy industry, including fifteen years as a consultant. Some of her specialties include product and project lifecycle development, strategic planning, regulatory compliance, team building, accounting systems and logistics. She is also familiar with proposals, business process design, cost control and risk mitigation. Ms. Ford's projects typically address organizational issues associated with ensuring efficiency of processes and determining global solutions to complex problems. Her clients have included Chevron, PEPCO Energy Services, Enterprise Products, Kinder Morgan, and Anadarko. Ms. Ford has consulting relationships with several companies such as TEK Systems and Accenture.

Ms. Ford has published several articles in energy trade periodicals and has addressed business practices through paneled discussions in several industry conferences. Ms. Ford and her team developed a software product, which was widely recognized for innovation and socio-economic impact on the industry, receiving multiple industry awards including the ComputerWorld/Smithsonian Institution "Innovator of the Year Award". The project team's nomination for this award was submitted to the Smithsonian by the late Steven P. Jobs.

Ms. Ford received a bachelor's degree in business administration and a project management certificate from Regis University. In her spare time, she enjoys running and exercising. She also finds the time to volunteer with the Houston Area Women's Center. In the years to come, Ms. Ford plans to continue consulting.
