

NEW YORK, NY, September 13, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Vivian Van Dijk, Editor-in-Chief and President of EYES IN Magazine, (Periodic Publication), embraces the spiritual and the inspirational within the September edition of her critically acclaimed EYES IN Magazine. Issue 23 feeds the mind, soothes the soul and relaxes the body with special creator features, including Afghan- American pianist and composer, Omar Akram; Iranian artist Ghass Rouzkhosh; Scottish actress, philanthropist and artist, Tilda Swinton; and beloved industrial design creator and HGTV television star, Brooks Atwood.

Snippets of these interviews include:

Music: Omar Akram: Using Music to Build a Bridge

"Music can positively affect people on many different levels. It can be a tool to communicate culture and a remedy for suffering, just as much as it is a form of entertainment. I've learned to meld cultures and bring in instruments from around the world without hesitation." -Omar Akram

Art: Ghass: Painting from the Soul of Man

"I always wanted to give life to things that didn't have an identity. That's my quest. It's not for me to tell you something in my work; it's for you, what impresses you." -Ghass Rouzkhosh

Film: Vampires Come to Cannes: Tilda Swinton in "Only Lovers Left Alive"

"The wonderful benefit of working for a long time on something is that by the time you shoot it, it's just in your bones. It's really natural, that slowness is in the rhythm of shooting. It gives you a certain patience." -Tilda Swinton

Design: Brooks Atwood: The Mad Scientist of Industrial Design

"I just jump into a new project and see if I can drown. Fail like a rock star, that's what I tell my students. So I approach every project with a totally unique eye and perspective. And from the very beginning I try to take it out to an extreme nether-region of design and go as far out as possible. -Brooks Atwood
