

New Solutions to Better Prepare Businesses for Emergencies

Written by Australian Business

GARDEN GROVE, CA, September 14, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Employers who don't already have an action plan to deal with natural disasters, power outages and even city-wide shutdowns will have a tougher time recovering after unexpected events. As a part of the FEMA sponsored September Emergency Preparedness month, Labor Law Center, a trusted online source and marketplace for business compliance solutions announces a build your own Emergency Preparedness Kit and a special limited time discount to better prepare businesses for emergency situations.

"It is the sole responsibility of the employer to ensure the workplace is safe and customer data is protected," says Labor Law Center's Elizabeth Beaubien. "Preparing for emergency scenarios may also help minimize lost profits during a period when a business can't operate."

Employers can choose from four specially selected Labor Law Center emergency preparedness items and receive a 15 percent discount. These key items can be integrated with current Human Resource Department emergency ready plans or be the catalyst for the creation of a thorough emergency response plan. The assortment is created to compliment other emergency ready supplies such as water, flashlights, batteries and other survival items.

Emergency Preparedness Items Include:

Emergency Exit Signage

No Weapons Allowed Poster: clearly states that weapons are prohibited on the premises.

Emergency Phone Number Poster: identifies key contacts for Ambulance, Fire-Rescue, Police, Hospital and other services.

Employee Emergency Information Recorder: stores all up-to-date emergency contact information for each employee.

Add each item to your shopping cart to build your own kit and use the code PREP2013 for a 15 percent discount off these select items. Offer ends September 30, 2013 at 11:59 PST. For a
