

HONG KONG, September 17, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Corrigan's appointment is the latest addition to the firm's growing financing and markets products division in Asia Pacific.

With extensive experience across all aspects of transitions, Corrigan has spent the last 10 years with major financial institution in Sydney, specializing in global markets where he managed over 250 transitions, including some of the largest and most complex executed in the Asia Pacific region. He will report to Mr. George Yuen, Co-Founder and Director of Portfolio Structuring and Investment Management.

"We're delighted to welcome Thomas to the transition management team. With a proven ability to innovate and deliver exceptional execution, he will be instrumental in further building our business in ways which benefit the firm's clients and spur the further growth of the transition management business in Australia and New Zealand," said Yuen.

Mr. Alistair Furlow, Co-Founder, Chairman, CEO and Head of the Investment Committee added: "Thomas is highly regarded within the superannuation and funds management industry as a leading practitioner and I am confident that he will bring an unrivalled commitment to our clients in Australia and New Zealand."

"He has a track record of cultivating dynamic teams within the competitive Australian and Asian markets. I look forward to his contributions across all areas of the business from client relationships and business development through to project management and system development," Furlow concluded.

Furlow Capital is an offshore private wealth management company that, in addition to providing complete financial advice across all financial disciplines to international businesses, high net-worth individuals and their families, we seek to address the needs of private retail investors that are looking to increase their worth for themselves and their family's future generations.

Furlow Capital, founded in 1997 as Furlow & Partners we changed our name to Furlow Capital following a buy-out of external private shareholders in 2007. We are based in the financial heart of Asia and continue to provide the client-focused service that was the cornerstone of our founder's philosophy. By staying true to our founder's vision we continue to offer the most comprehensive bespoke investment service and private wealth management solutions, accommodating both business and commercial clients and their individual needs and expectations.

Written by Australian Business

---

We gauge each of our client's specific requirements through conducting individual wealth management interviews. This enables our experts to establish tailored investment strategies unique to every client and this forms the basis from which we build and manage each individual portfolio. Our unique personal approach in establish bespoke investment planning to serve the best interests of our clients diverse needs marks Furlow Capital out as one of the leading and most respected financial advisory companies in the world today.