

NEW YORK, NY, September 17, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- The inaugural New York City Cyber Security Summit, set to take place on September 25th at the Hilton New York, will connect C-Level and senior executives responsible for protecting their companies' critical infrastructures with innovative solution providers and renowned information security experts. This educational and informational forum will focus on educating attendees on how to best protect highly vulnerable business applications and critical infrastructure. Attendees will have the opportunity to meet the Nation's leading solution providers and discover the latest products and services for enterprise cyber defense.

"With cyber crime being one of the greatest threats to business owners, we are thrilled to help educate and enlighten senior executives on how to best protect their businesses. As recent attacks have targeted both Twitter and The New York Times, this event is timed perfectly," states Bradford Rand, CEO & President, Cyber Security Summit and TECHEXPO Top Secret.

In addition to the exhibits and demonstrations, distinguished speakers will present case studies, discuss emerging security trends, threats and best strategies for securing enterprise architecture. This year's conference includes a notable lineup of featured speakers, including:
